Ho'oulu Hou: Growing Plants and Trees for Hula Lei
2004 Workshops

WEBSITE:

http://www.ctahr.hawaii.edu/rnre/Lei_Plant_Workshops.asp

Saturday, August 28th, 8 am-12pm
Leeward Community College

Native Pathfinders, an environmental educational non-profit organization, and UH CTAHR Dept. of Natural Resources and Environmental Management (NREM) will facilitate two educational workshops on O`ahu. The workshops will focus on effects we all have on the forest ecosystems and to encourage and motivate everyone to grow lei plants and trees in urban and suburban settings.

Saturday, September 11th, 8 am-12pm
Windward Community College

Hawaii's forest ecosystems are imperiled. "Alternatives to Forest Gathering of Plant Materials for Hula Lei Adornment" (Vieth, Cox, Josephson and Hollyer, 1999) highlights the threat posed by heavy harvesting of hula lei materials from native forests. Many of these plants and trees can be readily grown in home gardens.

UH Conference Center
2530 Dole St., C404
